Extension of its charitable work in caring for Protestant orphans in Alberta will be undertaken by the Local Organized order next spring through the establishing of an orphanage at Edmonton. The order, through the provincial Grand Chapter and the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Society, have purchased the old warden's house and two acres of the penitentiary site from the federal government.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

Remembrance Day, a day set apart by the Dominion in which to do honor to those who died, or as a result of the Great War, was fittingly observed throughout this section of the province.

At all churches on Sunday 1st, November the 11th, fitting references were made to the world's greatest and most unnecessary conflict, which required the loss of thousands of lives that were sacrificed in the hope that those at home should not suffer.

At Blaimore, the usual Remembrance Day service was held. At 10.45, the spacious Orpheum theatre, kindly loaned for the purpose, was filled to capacity for the service. The chair was occupied by Mr. J. Angus MacDonald. Following the singing of "O Canada" and invocation by Rev. A. E. Larke, two minutes' silence was observed, followed by addresses by Messrs. J. H. Farmer and J. E. Gillis, both of which were of the usual high order. A vocal solo "Jesus Lover of My Soul," by Miss Lena Fraser, and two appropriate selections by the Blaimore Male Voice Choir, were well rendered. Following the "Roll Call" by Messrs. J. Fudd and W. J. Fisher, the "Last Post" was sounded by Trumpeter J. Lowe, of Coleman. Mr. Harold Mark acted as official accompanist. "God Save The King" and benediction brought this part of the service to a close, following which the members of the I.O.D.E., the B.E.S.L., and a large number of citizens repaired to the cemeteries, where graves of veterans were decorated with solemn ceremony.

At Frank at 12.30, the Memorial Service was opened at the cenotaph almost immediately in front of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dunlop. This service was in charge of Capt. R. E. Dunlop, and was organized by R. V. Mundy, superintendent of Frank west camp of the Department of Militia and Defence. Speakers included Revs. A. S. Partington, Roy C. Taylor, F. Upton and Mr. J. Shevels, and all addresses were brief and to the point. In the lineup around the cenotaph were noticed representatives of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, under Sgt. J. Casey, Girl Guides and Brownies, under command of District Commissioner Mrs. R. P. Borden, of Coleman; Rangers, Scouts and Cubs from Bellevue and Hillcrest, and the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L. of Blaimore and Bellevue.

A touching incident that moved the vast audience was the placing of the wreath on the cenotaph by Mrs. Dunlop, who lost her only three sons in the Great War. The wreath was donated by the Alberta Provincial Command of the B.E.S.L.

The "Last Post" was sounded by Mr. George Goodwin, of Bellevue, followed by the "National Anthem," drawing one of the most impressive of memorial services to a close.

The thanks of the committee in charge are extended to all who in any way assisted.

CRANBROOK EDITOR'S COMMENT ON PASS MUSICAL FESTIVAL

Life has been enriched by the inauguration of the musical festival movement in the Kootenays and the Crows' Nest Pass region. Nelson-Trail have held their fifth festival; Cranbrook has held its fourth, and Blaimore its tenth. With each successive year they have shown a steady gain. Music lovers laugh at the depression; their minds soar on a more lofty plane. They have taught themselves to be concerned with musical notes rather than bank notes—a case of mind over matter, so to speak. At any rate the movement has grown by leaps and bounds.

The Blaimore festival had over 600 contestants, and in the three days the attendance would probably run close to 3000 people. They take their music seriously down in the Crows' Nest Pass towns. Schools declare a holiday and a mardi gras or carnival spirit pervades the place. Every other person seems to be able to play the fiddle, or the piano, or perform on some instrument or other, or sing. And they have wonderful teachers down there, for their work shows it.

The Crows' Nest Pass festival, we are told, has grown from what was originally a Sunday school festival until it now embraces a territory extending from Medicine Hat on the east to Cranbrook and Kimberley on the west.

Once we referred to that locality as "Piddlers' Green," and it would seem the appellation sticks, for we were reminded of it while there the other day. And we also noted upon a former occasion that Blaimore's principal street always reminded us of Michigan Boulevard in Chicago—high business blocks just on one side of the street. Now the resemblance is more pronounced, with its reserved strip down the centre and with magnificent street lights at short intervals. We found new buildings being erected and a very apparent spirit of optimism with the people.

Many of these musicians down in the Pass carry on cheerfully despite obstacles that would at least dampen the ardor of a less enthusiastic people. We cite an instance: Saturday afternoon of the festival members of the Michel-Natal band were a little late in arriving for their competition. Now it seems these boys, for many of them appeared to be just in their teens, worked their day's shift in the coal mines, washed up, changed clothes hurriedly, grabbed their instruments and jumped into awaiting cars and traveled some 20 miles, and within an hour after laying down their tools in the mine they were assembled on the stage doing their stuff before the large crowd assembled and the critical adjudicator. Work is none too plentiful in the mines there at best and these players could not afford to lost a shift. Such a spirit is worthy of praise.

We found another pleasing feature, and one out of the ordinary, down in the Pass. It was two newspaper editors in towns only four miles apart, who dwell in harmony and speak well of each other—the only case on record, so far as we know.

Mrs. G. McTeer, who was called to Hillcrest last week owing to the death of her mother, Mrs. David P. Small, returned to her home in Trail this week.

In the list of floral tributes for the funeral of the late Moses Johnson, in our last week's issue, with such a lengthy list, we inadvertently overlooked the following: McGillivray Creek Coal & Coke Co., Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Chappell, Jr., and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Harper and family, Mr. and Mrs. T. Hadwell and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. Oakes and family, Mrs. F. M. Pinkney and Roland. Also the name of Mr. and Mrs. H. Witmer, Toronto, appeared as Mitner.

AGED COWLEY

RESIDENT PASSES

In the death of Mrs. Nancy Crawford, which occurred on Monday morning of this week one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of the Lundbreck district passed to her reward.

Mrs. Crawford was in her eighty-third year. She was born in Kent, England, coming to Claremont, Ontario, at an early age, moving with her husband and family to the Lundbreck district in 1904. Here she lived an active and useful life and was particularly noted during the last years of her life for her remarkable vitality. She had been ill but a few weeks. The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon from the home at Ross Ranch, the remains being laid to rest in the Livingstone cemetery.

Two daughters, Mrs. Annie Croft, of Claremont, Ontario; Mrs. Rose Johnson; sons, W. C. Crawford, of Talmadge, Sask.; Fred, of Coleman; Roland, Harold and Edward, of the Lundbreck district, survive.

AGED HILLCREST

RESIDENT PASSES

The death occurred at Hillcrest on Friday last of Mrs. Small, widow of the late David P. Small, at a ripe age.

Mrs. Small was born in Scotland and came to Canada twenty-six years ago with her husband, taking up residence at Fernie. Six years ago they moved to Hillcrest, where Mr. Small passed away, three and a half years ago. She is survived by five brothers and one sister, all but one of whom are residing in the Old Country; also three children, Mrs. P. Haggerty, of Hillcrest; Mrs. Gordon McTeer, of Trail, B.C., and James, of Hillcrest.

The remains were laid to rest in the Hillcrest cemetery on Sunday afternoon, the funeral being very largely attended.

The West Kootenay Hockey League has been reorganized with Kimberley, Nelson, Trail and Rossland comprising the league.

ARMS MOTION IS DEFEATED IN BRITISH COMMONS

London.—A Labor motion for the abolition of private manufacture and trade in armaments was defeated in the House of Commons. The vote was 279 to 68.

Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, made it clear the British government will not permit an inquiry after the fashion of the recent United States senate committee's investigation into armaments.

Liberal speakers urged such an inquiry, but Sir John said methods used in the United States "would not commend themselves to British practice." Labor members apparently abandoned demands made several weeks ago for the inquiry.

The debate centered around the Labor resolution demanding abolition of the private manufacture and trade in armaments, and a provision for state production of such armaments "as considered necessary."

The high point of the debate was reached when Sir John rapped the United States system "would not commend themselves to British practice." "All of us, to whatever party we belong, know His Majesty the King had sent for the Polish ambassador and impressed upon him the importance of purchasing whatever he wanted from a British firm."

"Of course that is perfectly and entirely ridiculous," Sir John said. "All of us, to whatever party we belong, know His Majesty to be perfectly incapable of having any connection with this silly story."

Sir John said the government believed the remedy lay in an international treaty negotiated at Geneva, and signed and observed by all states for strict regulation and control, rather than a state monopoly.

Central Bank

Canadian Bankers Will Co-operate With New Plan

Montreal.—Although establishment of a central bank in Canada was destined to make a sharp break in the evolution of the Canadian banking system, there need be no fear Canadian bankers would not co-operate with the Bank of Canada, Jackson Dods, Montreal, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, told the annual general meeting of that organization here.

Since the Great War, Mr. Dods stated, it had become the fashion to establish central banks and Canadians had been led to think a central bank would be a chief factor in bringing a return to distressed prosperity. "This advocacy of the central bank idea," he declared, "resulted in the Canadian public forgetting the record of Canadian banks in the past four or five years when they withstood the shock of depression with such firmness, as contrasted with the unprecedented upset in banking service and stability experienced in the United States with its federal reserve banking system functioning under central bank principles."

Would Revise History Teaching

Toronto.—Modernization of history teaching in schools was advocated before the Canadian Education Association convention by G. Fred McNally, of Edmonton, supervisor of schools for Alberta. Mr. McNally said Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Ontario and the maritimes were revising the secondary school curricula and he suggested the association appoint a permanent committee to study this problem and others.

Moving To Toronto

Toronto.—C. C. Stewart, traffic and operating assistant to the general superintendent of the Canadian National Telegraphs at Winnipeg, will take over the same position on the eastern line, it has been announced. His headquarters will be in Toronto. W. M. Hamilton, western lines inspector, will take Mr. Stewart's place at Winnipeg.

Alberta Appointment

Edmonton.—George W. Gorman, chief inspector of schools in Alberta for the past 15 years, was appointed deputy minister of education, it was announced by Hon. Perren Baker, minister of education.

The largest artificial ice skating rink in Europe is located in Vienna, Austria.

Farmers Battle Police

Fourteen Picketers Are In Jail As Result Of Struggle

Mundare, Alta.—Fourteen men were in jail, one man suffering from a deep gash over an eye, and several others nursing bruises caused by police clubs in the hands of R.C.M.P. officers in a battle to round up grain strike picketers here. The men are held without bail.

The battle started when John Lohnash, anti-striker, stopped here with a wagon load of wheat and got the aid of R.C.M.P. Constable Pearson. Constable Pearson drove with him toward an elevator and 20 picketers advanced, upset the wagon and caused Pearson to land on his head. Reinforcements from the Vegreville detachment of the R.C.M.P. under Inspector Scott raided the picketers, and with clubs and drawn pistols waded in when the men refused to submit.

Steve Hawko received a gash over the left eye in the battle and several picketers were clubbed over the back. Finally, 14 were herded together and marched to the town cell. Only one R.C.M.P. man was hit by a picketer, it was announced.

Nine of the picketers were taken to the Fort Saskatchewan provincial jail, and a camera held by one of the picketers which recorded phases of the battle was confiscated.

The grain strike is based on protests of certain groups of farmers who are protesting against what they call low grading and certain dockages. Mundare is a settlement of Central Europeans and is about 30 miles east of Edmonton.

Co-operation Is Promised

Federal Government Willing To Help Tourist Industry States Premier

Ottawa.—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett gave the tourist industry of Canada a pledge it would be afforded the full co-operation of the federal government but at the same time he added a note of warning it was up to the industry to protect the good name of Canada by seeing the tourist received the fairest possible treatment from the standpoint of courtesy, truthful representation and honest price charges.

The prime minister addressed the members of the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaux and other tourist publicity experts representing the transportation companies, municipalities and private organizations and members of the senate tourist committee, at a dinner which concluded the nation-wide tourist conference called by the Canadian Travel Bureau.

Italy's Wheat Imports

Slightly Higher In October This Year Than Last

Rome.—Italy imported 32,270 quintals of wheat during October, compared with 31,062 in October last year. (A quintal of wheat is 3.67 bushels.)

A general statement covering the four months period from July to October shows that imports decreased this year by 20,586 quintals, whereas those of maize increased 45,035 quintals.

Conference Must Continue

London.—Great Britain and the United States agreed again that further naval conversations must continue until an agreement is reached, but insisted any concessions must come from Japan.

Want Grain Grading Probe

Investigation By Board Of Grain Commissioners Asked By Alberta Liberals

Edmonton.—An investigation by the board of grain commissioners into grain grading, holding of an immediate Alberta general election, and powers for the debt adjustment board of this province to reduce principal and interest were some of the demands made in resolutions passed by the central Alberta Liberal economic conference in sessions here.

"Certain manipulation" at the end of terminals was charged by delegates who urged the grain grading inquiry. They also commented upon what they described as a five-cent spread between track and street prices. It was also claimed that grain similar to what had been graded as No. 2 last year had been graded No. 4 this year in one instance.

Convicts Escape From French Penal Colonies

Suffered Many Hardships In Hazardous Trip To Safety

Aruba, Dutch West Indies.—Ten escaped convicts from three French penal colonies of French Guiana reached Aruba to tell an incredible tale of hardships suffered during their escape.

The men, headed by Jean Duverney, made the perilous ocean crossing despite the fact there was not one sailor in the lot.

For three of their 32 days under the searing Caribbean sun they were without food and for five days no water. They passed their time twice their frail boats were wrecked and many times they were near death.

BRITAIN PLANS TO PROVIDE MORE WORK FOR IDLE

London.—The "permanent" and unavoidable surplus of unemployed in Scotland should not be more than 60,000, and in South Wales 30,000, declare the reports of special commissioners who have concluded an investigation for the government of the more seriously depressed areas.

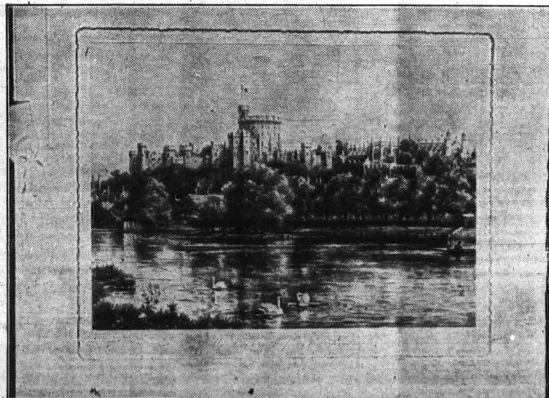

The reports cover Scotland, Durham and the Tyne-side, Cumberland, South Wales and Monmouthshire. They recommend improvement of existing industries of those areas; introduction of new industries; transfer of surplus unemployed to other parts; training of juveniles and schemes of land settlement and afforestation.

The strategic advantages from the defence viewpoint of the West Cumberland and Cardiff areas are cited in connection with proposals for the establishment of government factories there.

Relief schemes generally are discounted as merely palliative but the reports suggest the government be prepared to hand out subsidies covering the first two years' wages of unemployed absorbed by any private firm that is prepared to create factories.

Preparation of a government scheme for aiding the worst-distressed areas will be spurred by the reports and it is expected that legislation may be introduced early in the new session, opening at the end of the month.

THE KING'S CHRISTMAS CARD

This year, His Majesty the King will have a painting of Windsor Castle on his Christmas Card, and the view will be taken from the river. "Direct thy steps to Windsor's stately courts—explore her halls, her towers, her sacred fane. And treat thine eye with grandeur. Look around and mark the teeming landscape strewn with gems of architecture; mansions, villas, domes, replete with art and science, taste and beauty."

TO DIRECT MOVIE

May Be Important Find

Tar Sand Has Been Struck Near Hudson Bay Junction

Regina.—Samples of tar sand discovered in boring operations in Hudson Bay Junction vicinity have been received by company officials here.

Companies in joint drilling operations there are the Trail Blazer Company and the Senator Oil and Gas Company, of Ottawa. The tar sand was struck at 580 feet and the drill continued another 20 feet still in the tar sand.

Operations were forced to stop owing to the tar sands backing up in the drill tubing. As a result work has ceased until further casings can be obtained. The drill before it hit the tar sands went through from the surface, 40 feet of limestone under the top soil, 40 feet of gypsum streaked with lime, a small sand strata and then the tar sand.

The geology of the under-surface is reported to be favorable for the discovery of oil, according to Mr. Groat. Samples have been brought to Regina and they show a high quality product, but so far any analysis is unofficial. Just as soon as further casings arrive drilling operations will continue.

Interesting Ceremony

Duke Of Kent Is Presented To The House Of Lords

London.—Centuries rolled back as the Duke of Kent, youngest son of the king, was presented in the house of lords.

Members of the workaday house of commons left their precincts to crowd their gallery in the house of peers. The deputy earl marshal and other dignitaries led the procession immediately followed by the Duke of York, the Duke of Kent and lastly the Prince of Wales. The clerk read the letters patent creating Prince George the Earl of St. Andrew's and Duke of Kent.

For Western Bank

Edmonton.—Formation of a central bank for the four western provinces was advocated in a resolution passed by an economic conference of Edmonton Liberals here.

Coast Mayorality Fight

Interest Aroused In Elections At Vancouver To Be Held In December

Vancouver.—Two of British Columbia's most colorful political personalities, an ageing veteran of civic administration and a more youthful campaigner for national political monetary reform created Dominion-wide interest last spring, will seek the Vancouver mayorality in the elections of December 12.

G. G. McGeer, K.C., Liberal member of the British Columbia legislature for Vancouver-Burrard, added another item to an ambitious political program when he announced he would oppose Mayor L. D. Taylor's quest for re-election. Mr. McGeer had previously stated he would seek the Liberal nomination in the federal constituency of Vancouver-Burrard for the next elections.

Before "Gerry" McGeer's announcement, Mayor Taylor was the only candidate definitely in the race for the next two-year term of office at the head of the city council.

Waiting Request From League

France Is Prepared To Send Troops To Saar

Paris.—Foreign Minister Pierre Laval told Roland Koester, German ambassador to France, that France stands ready to send troops into the Saar Basin if the League of Nations so requests.

He denied, however, that special military movements already have been ordered.

The ambassador replied Germany had no intention whatever of disregarding conditions fixed by treaty in order to assure free voting in the Saar.

Salzburg, Austria.—A member of the Austrian Nazi legion appearing before a court on high treason charges told his judges the legion had been prepared in Germany for "action in the Saar."

Death Rate Lower

Has Decreased In Canada During The Period Of Economic Stress

Toronto.—Canada's death-rate has decreased during the past four years of economic stress until now it is the lowest in the history of the country, according to Dr. Grant Fleming, director of the department of public health and preventive medicine at McGill University, Montreal.

Dr. Fleming spoke on "Health and the Depression" at the 10th annual meeting of the Canadian Dental Hygiene Council here.

Officers of the C.D.H.C. for the coming year were named, with the president E. E. Reid, London, Ont. The executive committee includes Dr. L. J. D. Fasken, Regina.

MOST EMPHATIC ENDORSATION OF NEW DEAL IN U.S.

New York.—Power of the old-line conservative Republicans was broken in the congressional elections and the Democratic party, or the New Dealers, found themselves masters of the senate and house of representatives, rapidly moving toward complete and solid control of government.

In the fifth winter of a depression the voters of the United States declared with no uncertain voice for the policies of federal relief and government control of business and agriculture instituted during the past two years by President Roosevelt.

The Rooseveltian New Deal tide spared neither age nor reputation in its devastating sweep. The country has given Roosevelt the signal to go ahead with his ramified new deal by electing Democrats into federal and state offices in unprecedented numbers. Far from losing ground, as is usual in off-year balloting, the jubilant Democrats invaded such Republican fortresses as Pennsylvania and seemed assured of commanding two-third majorities in both branches of the next congress.

With the overwhelming stamp of approval placed on his experiments, President Roosevelt may be expected to push ahead with two plans close to his heart—the St. Lawrence seaway and increased international trade.

Recently Roosevelt has sworn it remains to be seen, if the great it remains to be seen, if the great body of Democrats will not prove so unwieldy as to force his hand. Many of them verge close to the outermost border of the left; others swing as decidedly to the right. Only time can tell which carry the weight.

R.C.M.P. FORCE MAKE HIT AT NEW YORK SHOW

New York.—First visit of a detachment of Royal Canadian Mounted Police to the United States annual National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden has aroused New York to such an extent newspapermen are digging up adjectives that were buried after the Great War armistice to express their appreciation.

"Joe Williams, writing in the World-Telegram, expresses the opinion of most of the show critics when he says:

"Admitting the unique effect of the males in the boxes, all of whom wore stovepipe hats, as if mourning a departed Tammany leader, and the gentlemen who wrapped their expansive tummies in butcher aprons as they drove those little toy huggies around the ring, the bit of the show was the Canadian Mounties. Take my word for it, this is the most spectacular thing that ever showed under the Garden roof, including the first McLain-Petrolle brawl."

"To the strains of 'The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers' (which did not seem altogether flattering to the Mounties or their mounts), a division of 32 spirited horses carried their scarlet-coated masters through a series of intricate dressage maneuvers that was nothing short of breathtaking—a series that was brought to a rousing climax with a galloping career the full length of the arena. "The Mounties do everything the Russians do on the stage and do it on horseback, at that. I was slightly disappointed in the figure when the horses didn't stand upright at attention while the band played 'God Save the King.' Perhaps this was too stencilled for them."

"No longer is it a mystery why the Mounties always get their man. It must be a pleasure to surrender to those fellows. Before the week is over I venture to say they will have Dutch Schultz and Baby Face Nelson on their knees begging to go to the str."

Marketing Scheme

Alberta Livestock Producers Adopt Plan At Calgary Meeting

Calgary.—The proposed marketing scheme for Alberta under the federal Natural Products Marketing Act was launched at a meeting of Alberta livestock producers which lasted into the early hours of the morning.

The plan as drafted by the provisional committee of 17 members was adopted by the meeting without any changes with only five of the 193 livestock producers registered at the meeting voting in opposition to its adoption.

The meeting, under the chairmanship of W. C. McKenzie, Lethbridge, was addressed by P. E. Robin, chairman of a similar committee for Saskatchewan, who expressed the opinion his province was ready and willing to act toward a western marketing unit. He said he had heard by telephone that a similar meeting had been held for Manitoba livestock producers.

Interested In Butcher Plans

Many Inquiries At Ottawa In Connection With Marketing Control

Ottawa.—The butter schemes proposed by the National Dairy Council and now under consideration of the Dominion marketing board is the subject of innumerable inquiries from all sections of Canada, it is learned.

The scheme, it is believed, has not been before the board, as yet, in a serious way. The absence from Ottawa of important members of the board has made it impossible to deal with the butter question and important developments are not expected for a few days.

Predicts More Members

Edmonton.—Increase in United Farmers of Alberta membership of from 1,000 to 3,000 was predicted by Vice-President Norman F. Priestley here. Mr. Priestley said that improved conditions in farm communities of Alberta together with revival of interest in U.F.A. objectives would share in the increase.

Planning Australian Flight

London.—Capt. Charles Ulm, Australian airman planning a flight from Vancouver to Australia, figured his specially-equipped plane will have a cruising radius of between 2,800 and 3,800 miles. This is roughly 1,900 miles more than the greatest cruising radius of the entrants in the London-Melbourne race.

SOVIETS SHIFTED TO MILD TONE IN PLATFORM CAMPAIGN

Moscow—Crude caricatures of foreign statesmen and abusive slogans against capitalism are singularly absent from Soviet Russia's celebration today of its "October Revolution."

Banners carried in parades throughout the country stress world peace and co-operation, reflecting Russia's changed place in the world following recognition by the United States and admission to the League of Nations.

The customary diatribes against capitalism and predictions of imminent world revolution have almost disappeared. This year the emphasis is upon improvement of industry and living conditions for workers, upon world peace and a world-wide campaign against Fascism. A few slogans express rather mildly the hope that a workers' government of the world is not far distant.

On this occasion the Soviet Government displays its growing military power to its own people and the world. Tanks and armored cars, marching and mounted soldiers, led parades in all cities today, as in the past. Military airplanes, to which the government devotes increasing attention, circled above reviewing stands.

But banners proclaimed that Russia's growing military might is intended solely for defense, and that peace is the primary aim of Soviet foreign policy.

By years of experience Soviet organizers have learned to stage these great demonstrations with remarkable efficiency. The procedure is the same in all cities. A few days ago the official newspapers printed a list of about 20 slogans, from which trade unions, schools, clubs and offices selected one or two to cision and carried by parades. These slogans are somewhat different every year and indicate the Government's domestic and foreign policies of the moment.

Today's celebration is one of three universal annual holidays observed by Russia's 165,000,000 people. The "October Revolution" occurred on Oct. 25 by the old Russian calendar, but on Nov. 7 by the new.

Every city, every town, every agricultural village and collective farm have observed the occasion with parades, military reviews, patriotic programs and musical and dramatic entertainments in clubs and theaters.

Every Soviet city aspired this year to draw each one of its workers into the mass demonstrations, which have increased in size and color every year. In both Leningrad and Moscow, party organizers declare that more than 1,000,000 men, women and children marched past the reviewing stands occupied by governmental and party chiefs.

To make such large-scale demonstrations possible, the normal activity of the cities stopped entirely at 9 o'clock in the morning. At that hour street cars and buses ceased to run, all shops and offices closed, and hundreds of thousands of people had assembled in squares and parks to await their appearance before reviewing stands.

The Moscow demonstration served as a model for other cities. Thousands had to wait patiently from 7 o'clock in the morning until 9 in the evening to get into Red Square, where Joseph Stalin and other members of Russia's ruling body, the Political Bureau, reviewed them from 2 o'clock until after 9—Christian Science Monitor.

BICYCLE RIDING CAUSED YOUTH OF 90'S TO GO TO THE BOW-WOWS

"The younger generation is going to the dogs." No doubt, no doubt—at least the elders are always saying so, and they ought to know.

But there is one drawback. It has been discovered that the younger generation authoritatively went to the dogs 37 years ago. And the cause of it was—bicycles!

Bicycles, the forerunner of the automobile, the inspiration for "Daisy Bell," the joy of small boys, were once the scourge of civilization.

A copy of The Housekeeper, dated November 15, 1897, which was found a few days ago by a Eugene diary, deplors the degrading effect of bicycling of feminine riders in an editorial called "The Bicycle Girl."

Bicycling blunts the sensibilities, mutes this frayed, yellowed semi-sophisticated paper of the nineties, stating that "there is real danger that the women of the next generation may be a little less refined because of the boughfulness of the bicycle girl of today."

Morals are apt to be endangered by bicycling, also, for "a young man treats a girl with greater familiarity after having accompanied her on a long bicycle ride."

Gum-chewing is another evil encouraged by bicycling, states the 1897 editorial. Not only is gum disgusting and unrefined, but according to prominent specialists, chewing with the mouth open, as may bicyclists do, is frequently the cause of impaired hearing.

The paper advises bicyclists: "Girls, don't talk in loud tones as you ride, or laugh boisterously, or whistle, or stare at other bicyclists or flirt with them. There is no more reason why you should feel free with the unknown rider of a wheel than the stranger on horseback."

All in all, the editorial decides that bicycling has given girls a sense of freedom which is extremely detrimental to their conduct. Fast motion induces equally fast conduct, laments the writer, comparing the girls' actions to the pedals' movement.—Anne Reed Burns in the Oregon Emerald.

EDITOR MORALIZES

A Minnesota editor moralizes thusly: "If we could all switch businesses all the way around for just one week, we'd be a lot more sympathetic to the other fellow's problem and know a lot more than we do at present about the cause of his shortcomings and of his apparent failures. Let the banker sell 'runes, the grocer pull teeth, the dentist run a garage, the garage man edit the paper, the editor run the bank—for just six little work days and we'd all have our eyes so wide open to what the others are up against that we would never have the courage to criticize, nor would we be sympathetic again. Then if the whole caboodle of us were to move on various farms and operate them for another six days per each, we'd all be so wise and understanding that the peace and harmony prevailing would make this little old community just about the best place in the world to live in. It can't be done, of course, but we could take the thought to ourselves that we don't know anything about the other man's job and concede that for all we know he is handling it in good shape."

MOST FOLKS THAT GO IN FOR THESE NEW RELIGIONS NEVER GAVE THE OLD ONE A FAIR TRIAL

THE WORLD IS AGAINST ME

"The world is against me," he said with a sigh. "Somebody stops every scheme that I try. The world has me down and it's keeping me there; I don't get a chance. Oh, the world is unfair! When a fellow is poor, then he can't get a show; The world is determined to keep him down low."

"What of Abe Lincoln?" I asked. "Would you say— That he was much richer than you are today? He hadn't your chance of making his mark. And his outlook was often exceedingly dark; Yet he clung to his purpose with courage most grim. And he got to the top. Was the world against him?"

"What of Ben Franklin?" I've often heard it said That many a time he went hungry to bed. He started with nothing but courage, to climb; But patiently struggled and bided his time. He dangled awhile from real poverty's limb, Yet he got to the top. Was the world against him?"

I could name you a dozen, yes, hundreds, I guess, Of poor boys who've patiently climbed to success; All boys who were down and who struggled alone, Who'd have thought themselves rich if your fortune they'd known; Yet they rose in the world you're so quick to condemn, And I'm asking you now, was the world against them?"

—Edgar A. Guest.

THE MINERS' PASSING

Was there time for the breath of a prayer?

An' the quick-stabbin' thoct—

"Nevermair

Will I see them or touch my ain dears?"

Were there agonies, fears?

O, the sinister secrets it keeps,

The pit, in its cavernous deeps,

Death's eye lurks there i' the gloom,

Outr often the pit is the tomb.

An' wives maun gang lanely, bereft,

An' mihiers, like Rachad, are left

To weep unconsol'd f' their pain

For sons that can never again.

An' lassies wi' passionate tears,

See stretchin' the lang empty years.

"O, hoo can I breathe the sweet air

When the lad that I lo'e perished there?"

The whistle, the laugh; an' the sang

Down there are a' still, an' the clang

Of hammer an' pick—it's a bye,

The bustle o' life, where they lie.

In danger their days were a' passed,

An' danger meant death there at last.

We mourn wi' your mourners.

The seal

That's laid on your grave canna steal

The best that was in ane an' a'—

That lives an' will ne'er win awa'.

May comfort be gien to your ain

I' their sorrow to lighten their pain.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

At a Remembrance Day service held in the past year, L. W. Brockington, of Calgary, addressed these words to those gathered before the soldiers' cenotaph. The sentiments are worthy of repetition.

"In this hallowed place we honor in memory the glory of immortal youth and the beauty of sacrifice."

"Of women, who, in the words of the nobles of all war memorials, the National Scottish Memorial at Edinburgh, 'in the stress of war, sought by their labors, sympathy and prayers to obtain for their country the blessings of peace.'"

"Of men who loved life and sunshine, youth and laughter, gave all that they loved best—for such is sacrifice, lest those that loved them should pay the price."

"May I enshrine your remembrance in the still youthful language of the orator of old:

"Each one, man by man, has won imperishable praise, each gained a glorious grave. Not that sepulchre on earth in which they lie, but the living tomb of everlasting remembrance wherein their glory is enshrined. Remembrance that will live on the lips, that will blossom in the deeds of their countrymen the world over. For the whole earth is the sepulchre of heroes. Monuments may rise and tablets be set up to them in their own land, but on far off shores there is an abiding memorial that no pen, no chisel has traced; it is green, not on stone or on brass, but on the living heart of humanity."

"This shall be our memory. What is our hope?"

"We can hear already the still sad music of humanity swelling into one hymn of praise. Time, which has dimmed our grief, has brightened the hope that springs from their glory. Shall we not in memory of these men and women who dedicated themselves to the cause of love and understanding amongst the nations of mankind strive to maintain the principles for which they died and by which we live—and, above all, to carry 'Ever in our right hands gentle peace to silence envious tongues?'"

"By doing so we shall not break faith with them that died."—Ex.

Another curious thing, to prove again if proof were necessary the hoary antiquity of wine, is that among the earliest references to it, when men first scrawled their ideographs on their mud walls, certain brands had won reputation. One of the first countries to become celebrated for its wine was Persia, and it is altogether in keeping that the great troubadour of the vine, Omar Khayyami, should have been a Persian tent-maker. When Alexander invaded the country, he called the native wine "the blood of the earth."

How soon after a district had won renown for its wines the practice of adulteration began we do not know, but a great period of time had not elapsed before contemporary writers were bewailing the good old days before the art of faking wines had been established. The Greeks were said to have been adepts in this shady business.

But perhaps it was no different with wines than with other things. Few writings which have come down to us ante-date the lamentations that the age had fallen upon evil days and the good old customs departed forever. As a matter of fact it was not so, and there is far better wine to-day than ever before.

Perhaps the first wine that gained more than local fame was the Falernian, which we encounter again and again in the classics. It was produced from grapes grown on a hillside in Campania, famous for the fertility of the soil, and we may remark incidentally that nothing is commoner than for noble wines to be produced from vines flourishing in soil that is generally inhospitable for less worthy fruits. But Campania in those days was as renowned for the richness of its yields as is the Niagara district to-day.

For Falernian itself is described as being "dark, rough and strong" when young, but, after having been aged for fifteen years, soft and mellow. Even in Pliny's day, there were connoisseurs who had the patience to let their wines mature and thought fifteen years spent in waiting not time wasted.

But those who could not wait and yet desired Falernian found that by mixing with it the milder Chian, the harshness of its immaturity was disguised, and they had a drink with the peculiar Falernian flavor. Pliny, in his day, declared that there were eighty good wines, of which fifty-four were produced in Italy. To-day, there are not half-a-dozen Italian wines that have any celebrity that extends beyond their own shores.

MOTHER INJURED AT CHILDBIRTH

An injury received during childbirth by Mrs. M. Seyffert, Toronto, Ontario, resulted in constipation. Mrs. Seyffert did not find complete relief until she started using Fruit-a-ives. She is so grateful to be well again that Mrs. Seyffert wants to help others by telling of her experience under oath before a notary, to convince you of its truth. She says,—"A bad injury I received at childbirth resulted in constipation. For years I felt run down, lacked all vitality. I started taking Fruit-a-ives and now I am up at 6:30 a.m. every morning doing my own housework. I am quite regular."

Copy of Mrs. Seyffert's sworn statement will be sent on request. Write Fruit-a-ives, Ltd., Toronto, Canada.

A FREAK PARTRIDGE

An Albino (white) partridge was shot by "Chuck" Naylor, son of Constable and Mrs. Naylor, of Vulcan, while out hunting for the elusive partridge with a party of local hunters on Thursday of last week. The bird shot was practically pure white with the exception of a few faint touches of brown on the tips of the wings. It was bagged seven miles south west of town. White partridges of this type are very rare and are considered freaks by sportsmen, according to press reports noticed this season, and very few have been found in Alberta. The bird has been sent to Mr. Gould, of High River, who will mount it for display. Chuck can consider himself mighty lucky in bagging such a freak, and will no doubt be mighty proud of the trophy when it is mounted.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK

If an Atlantic coast fisherman gets one and three-quarters to two cents a pound for haddock, how much should the consumer be expected to pay? Or, to put it in another way: If the consumer pays eighteen cents a pound for his haddock, how much should the fisherman receive? A Nova Scotia fishing captain has been telling the Royal Commission at Ottawa of how he landed fish one morning, sold it at one and three-quarters cents and on the way home bought sufficient for his lunch at eighteen cents a pound. The two middlemen got sixteen and a quarter cents. Lunenburg and Lockport fishermen declared that conditions in the industry back to the middle English bugle.

were so bad that fishing fleets has been reduced to one-quarter of their former number. The fishermen's complaint was simply that they were not getting a fair share of the consumer's dollar. The Stevens inquiry may continue under a new leader, but that it will continue is now beyond doubt. The public is roused by the startling revelations, and there is a general belief that the half has not yet been told.—New Outlook.

BUGLE: FROM THE OX THAT FIRST SUPPLIED IT

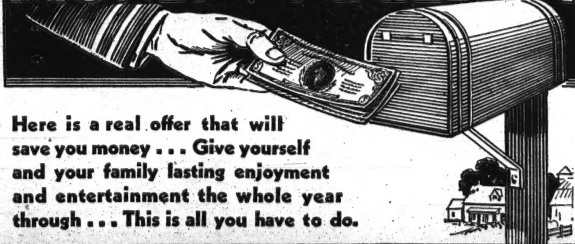

The first meaning of bugle in modern English was "a wild ox, especially a buffalo." We can trace the word "bugle" back to the middle English bugle, "buffalo," then to the French bue which was derived from Latin bueulus, "a young bullock."

The horn of an ox, made into a blowing instrument, was called a bugle horn after the animal which supplied the horn; then horn was dropped and bugle alone came to be used with the same meaning; and that meaning has been retained while the original meaning "ox" has long been obsolete.

The car and couple were skirting the edge of a slough when Marry asked, "Whose little lovey duck is 'oo'?" Distracted, Bill released the wheel and let the car dive into the mud. Wiping the slime from his face, he replied, "Ooze."

Why at 40 You Think You're "GROWING OLD"

It's frequently just an "idea." Not "Old Age." And according to Scientists, May be something No More Alarming Than A Touch Of Acid Stomach

At about 40, many people think they're "growing old." They're tired a lot. Have headaches. Stomach upsets. Dizziness. Nausea.

Well, scientists say the cause, in a great many cases, is merely an acid condition of the stomach. The thing to do is simply to neutralize the excess stomach acidity.

When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, all you do is take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed.

Try this. You'll feel like another person. Take after the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia" the convenient new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Made in Canada.

Also in Tablet Form

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each box contains the equivalent of 100 tablets of the famous Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

THE TENDERFOOT

By GEORGE B. RODNEY
Author of "The Coronado Trail," "The Canyon Trail," Etc.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen near to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

But Keene decided to see what was happening for himself—not as Gerald Keene, half owner of the Four-Glass Ranch, but as Duro Stone, tenderfoot in a Montgomery Ward wild west outfit.

Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector, now is returning to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, who had grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore. He sees Broken Spur men rustling Four-Glass cattle and protests against it.

Spike Goddard and Sam Dustin, fearing the old prospector may tell others the things he has seen as to the branding of Carr's cattle, plot to get him to show them the location of the mine and then to kill him.

(Now Go On With The Story)

Kane nodded. His conscience was by no means clear. He knew that he had spoken unguardedly and he remembered how interested Raynor had been.

"Of course Spike and I are going to stake you," said Dustin. "But we've got to know more than we know now. A big mine'll cost money. We've got to be able to show the goods to capital. See? When can you take me up there to see the place?"

Kane eyed him but Dustin's face was impassive. After all his demand was very reasonable. No one could expect men to "buy a pig in a poke." He nodded quietly.

"Give me a couple of days," he said. "Then I'll hike back up there and take you with me. I'll show it to you. Just you and me, hey?"

"That's all. We'll take a pack-pony for grub. I've got some business to tend to before I go."

He stopped Spike Goddard midway between the house and the corral and told him his plan.

"You mean you're going out into the hills with that old rat by yourself? No one else? Then he can't come back? That's takin' a most God's awful chance," said Spike who knew. But Dustin frowned him down.

"I mean that I'm going out into the hills with old Dad Kane to look into a prospect with him. I want Peyotl Gregg to go with us. If any accident should happen to Kane, it will be my fault, will it? I'll be leavin' with him on Monday. In the meantime, Spike, I've got some of old Joe Carr's paper. He borrowed twelve thousand from old Pogram on a note and the old Shoylock was damned eager to sell it to me. We've sure as good as got old Joe Carr's half of the Hour-glass sewed up."

"Yea? Well . . . Gerald Keene owns the other half, don't he?"

"We'll cross that bridge when we come to it. You tell Peyotl Gregg to make up a couple of packs and to be ready to hit the trail first sign of light Monday mornin'. See?"

Spike glanced at him pityingly.

"Old man Kane's as crazy as a hoot-owl," he said. "All prospects are crazy. Peyotl Gregg ain't got but one chance to make a water-bag. An' you're going off into the hills with a string of jackasses an' two crazy men. I'm glad I ain't goin' in Kane's place."

Dustin looked long at him and turned away.

"In that case you're sure playin' in luck," he said.

CHAPTER V.

The Hour-glass ranch basked in the red-hot sunlight and the four men playing cards in the strip of shade behind the bunk-house contemplated appreciation of the game and of the hot wind that bent the mesquite tops. Lee and Spears and Baines were playing Mississippi River poker with a pack of twenty cards while Fort, the fat old range clerk, assisted with a view from the sidelines. At a sudden noise he rose erect and stared down the trail.

"My God, fellers," he said in an awed tone; "look at Montgomery Ward, will yuh . . ."

They looked. For a brief moment they were stricken dumb. Then they laughed as a gray pony, hardly visible beneath its load of ill-stowed equipment, turned in at the gate and moved slowly toward the corral. His ill-adjusted saddle made the pony seem to move sideways and the four continued to stare as the rider dismounted and moved stiffly toward them. No word came from the poker players as the man came up to them. In non-committal silence they regarded him.

"Any chance for a job here?" he asked.

Silent Lee jerked a finger at the ranch-house.

"Old man Carr's in there," he said. "He does his own hirlin' an' firin'. See him if you want a job."

"Thanks . . ."

The man strode over to the house and up the wooden steps. They saw him knock at the door; they heard a bull voice shout "come in" and they saw the newcomer drop his hat at the door sill before entering.

"Southern bred man," quoth Baines; "but, my God, fellers! Have we all

Started In Curious Way

British House Of Commons Burned Hundred Years Ago

A hundred years ago, on Oct. 16, 1834, the House of Commons was burned down. The great-grandfather of the present Lord Beaconsfield, Governor-General of Canada, performed feats of valor at the fire. He was then M.P. for Nottingham.

He climbed on the roof to direct the hose, in spite of the smoke, heat, water, and molten lead flowing around him. He was begged to come down, but did so only two minutes before the whole of the roof collapsed.

The fire started in a curious fashion. Until 1827 it was the practice of the Treasury to issue wooden "tallies" as acknowledgements for loans to the government.

Tallies were made by splitting a strip of wood in two, one part being retained by the treasury and the other being issued to the lender, who returned it when he repaid his loan.

It was the custom to store discharged tallies in the cellars of the House of Commons, and it was among them that the fire broke out. Paper acknowledgements were substituted for tallies in 1827.—News of the World.

Present Greater Threats

Lions Born In Captivity More Trouble To Trainers

Oddly enough the lions born and bred in captivity present greater threats to trainers than do jungle-born lions. Why? Because the jungle-born, not having known humans in youth, fears and respects his master when at last they are brought in contact.

On the other hand captive-born lions usually are petted during babyhood. Everyone knows that familiarity breeds contempt, and nowhere is this more true than in our relationship with these magnificent beasts.

Behind the danger that is constantly present stands this one fact—the lion, no matter where, and how born, is a wild animal. He always will be wild. He passes from babyhood at three years to the full-grown lion stage. After that, look out!—Pearson's Weekly.

No Damages For Negligence

Careless People Cannot Expect Compensation For Injuries

In an action tried in Ontario before a Middlesex jury the other day, in which damages for injuries were asked, a verdict was given that will have a very widespread effect on all cases of compensation for injuries suffered. Suit was entered against the Melbourne Agricultural Society by a father on behalf of his son, 10 years old, who was injured on the racetrack at the fair. In spite of warnings given to keep off the track through a loudspeaker he persisted in getting into the zone of danger, with the result that he was knocked down by a racehorse, receiving injuries to his knee.

The jury deliberated on the case and found that the boy had suffered on account of his own carelessness and, hence, was not entitled to damages.

The significance of the verdict is that it throws the responsibility on people themselves for exercising reasonable caution. If they are careless and negligent they cannot expect to collect damages from others on the ground that the latter are responsible for their safety. It is possible that if this principle were pressed more energetically there would be fewer accidents.—Brantford Expositor.

Sopwith Is Real Sport

Admits Mistakes And Says He May Challenge Again

Mr. Sopwith, on his return to England, informed the press that the reason he had not the America's cup with him was that he had made more mistakes than his opponent. This sportsmanlike statement was accompanied by the remark that he was prepared to challenge again. Perhaps the next time he will be successful. His Endeavour proved herself to be the superior of the Raleigh in many respects, a fact which was admitted by numerous American yachtsmen. In any event, his words are of a nature to remove any ill-feeling that may have grown out of the technical protests.—Montreal Gazette.

Home Of Many Watches

Lovely Timepieces Made In Liverpool, England, Years Ago

Liverpool, England, was the home of many large watch manufacturers in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries; here lovely watches were made and many of them came to America; these were all open faced and rather large. Women wore them on black silk cords and they were wound with tiny gold keys. The cases were receptacles for pictures of loved ones. The tiny screw holes in the works were often set with semi-precious stones and many of them, although nearly two hundred years old, still keep correct time.

Cuban baking methods require the use of a flour with a high content of fine-quality gluten. Flour milled from Canadian wheat satisfies this requirement and consequently 70 per cent of the imports are of flour made from Canadian wheat.

Music was devised by the gods to lure the sun-god from a cave where he had retired, according to Japanese legend.

Little Helps For This Week

"We know that all things work together for good to them that love God." Romans 8:28.

Ill that He blesses is our good, And unbelief good is ill; And all is right that seems most evil, If it should be His will.

To those who know themselves all things work together for good. The good which God gives seems very good, and only because they know that they deserve them not. The evil which God allows seem also good because they are in them His loving hand put forth to heal them of what shuts God out from the soul. They love God intensely, in that He is so good to them in each and every way. They love God for what seem evils knowing them to be from His hand real goods. For He by whom "all the hairs of our head are numbered" directs everything which befalls us in life, in perfect wisdom and love to the well-being of our souls.

Plenty Of Work Ahead

Will Be Over Year Before "Queen Mary" Ready For Service

Although many of the Queen Mary's "black squad" will be thrown idle or diverted to other jobs following upon the vessel's successful launch on September 26 it is estimated that about 3,000 men will still find employment, for more than a year ahead.

There is a great amount of work yet to be undertaken in transforming the giant steel hull into a floating luxury hotel, and there will be few idle moments between now and the spring of 1936, when according to schedule, she should enter the North Atlantic service.

Venom Of Snakes

Doctors Discover New Treatment For Uncontrollable Bleeding

The venom of snakes may possess mysterious properties helpful in the treatment of haemophilia, it was indicated by the researches of two British physicians.

A new treatment for the disease—an uncontrollable bleeding from which the sons of former King Alfonso of Spain are sufferers—was described in the Lancet, English medical journal, by Drs. R. G. MacFarlane and Burgess Barnett.

The physicians based their study of the hitherto incurable malady on the knowledge that the poisons of many snakes cause blood to clot. After numerous tests they found the venom of the viper to be most effective for their purposes. From it they developed what they believed to be a safe technique in the treatment of the disease.

Trapped By "Want Ad"

Police of Springfield, Missouri, used a newspaper want ad to trap a house prowler who had stolen an electric sewing machine. The ad read: "Will exchange model T Ford for an electric sewing machine." The prowler "fell" for the ad, and promptly showed up at the home of a city detective who placed him under arrest and recovered the sewing machine for its owner.
